[Individual Studies]
Association of Type D personality with the cardiovascular response to a stress task.................................Shunichi ISHIHARA 1
A study of the “desire for stability in youth”.................................................................................................Tsutomu MASUDA 15
A study of the “aporia of hospitality” in social welfare services
- Based on statements by Derrida -........................................................................................................Haruhiko HOSHINO 27
Using a personality test to predict the recurrence of depression...............................................................Tadashi ASANO 35
Parental involvement in nursery and school administration in the Netherlands.......................................Kazuyuki OTA 45
Clinical developmental tasks and assistance to address “difficulty talking to others”
- A phenomenological understanding and existential changes –........................................................Hiroyuki TAKAO 71

[Group Studies]
A survey of the frequency with which Japanese female undergraduates experience nightmares
................................................................................................................................Okada Hitoshi, Matsuda Eiko 81
Usefulness of a psychology proficiency test to evaluate psychology education:
A study at a small psychology college
...............................................................Tazumi Tooru, Ishihara Shunichi, Shimahara Eiko, Taniguchi Makiko, Niimi Hidekazu, Sumiya Masashi, Li Yan, Takahashi Shu, and Takahashi Keiko 91
Reorganization of negative emotional experiences through desensitization based on the Tokeai-Dohsa method
.............................................................................................................KONNO Yoshitaka & YOHIKAWA Nobuyo 103
The risk factors for school absenteeism and school non-attendance:
According to interviews with student counseling teachers..........................................................Kiyoshi Yaguchi and Takako Koshiba 121
Study of effective support for families dealing with child abuse.........................................................Akiyoshi ISHIBASHI, Tadashi ASANO 131
Support through cooperation by related organizations:
Focusing on initial responses to problems.................................................................................................Akiyoshi ISHIBASHI 133
Emotional abuse and juvenile delinquency
- Educational activities with parents in a juvenile training school–........................................................Tadashi ASANO 141
The mere exposure effect in choosing merchandise (3):
A reexamination of the influence of response inhibition.
..............................................................................................................................Nobuo USUI, Daisuke YOSHINO, Akiko KAMADA 149
A survey of undergraduates regarding their previous experiences being bullied:
The relationship between having been bullied and how the bullying was perceived and self-esteem
..............................................................................................................................Nobuyo YOSHIKAWA, Yoshitaka KONNO, Nobuhiko AIZAWA 155

[Others]
About the publication of the winning prize article of the Masters degree course in human science graduate course article contest....................................................................................Nobuhiko KANDA 167
The association between the mother–child relationship in early childhood and object relations in adolescence:
Studies using cognitive and projective assessments..............................................................................Mayumi HIGUCHI 169
2013 Faculty of Human Science Teacher’s Group Studies Subjects.............................................................................. 187